

THE GENEROUS HUSBAND.

"This year, dearie, you can wish anything you want for your birthday present."

"Oh, how charming!"

"Because I haven't the money to buy anything at all for you."—Flegende Blaetter.

The Maddest Man in Town.

There was a man who had a clock. His name was Matthew Mears. He wound it regular every night. For four-and-twenty years. And when this precious timepiece proved an eight-day clock to be. A madder man than Matthew Mears. You wouldn't wish to see.

—Tit-Bits.

Sells on Sight.

Peddler—Have you any daughters, mum?

Housekeeper—Sir!

"Please, mum, I don't ask out of vulgar curiosity, mum. I'm selling resonators."

"What are they?"

"You hang one up in the hall, mum, and it so magnifies every sound that a good-night kiss sounds like a cannon shot."

"Give me three."—N. Y. Weekly.

Too Much for Paw.

The room was very quiet.

"Paw," said Ostend, "if you use too much tobacco will you get a 'tobacco heart'?"

"Yes, my son," replied paw, looking up from his paper.

"Well, paw, if you drink too much wood alcohol would you get a wooden leg and—"

But there was the sound of a struggle and again the room was quiet.—N. Y. Herald.

She Was from Missouri.

Said the widow, a pretty young Mrs. "Sir, I really don't know what a krs."

Then the boy man in haste. Put his arm round her waist. And exclaimed: "My dear madam, thrs."

—Chicago Daily News.

THAT WAS AWFUL.

"Have you heard the awful scandal about Mr. Hidyupus?"

"Mercy, no! What is it?"

"They won't tell."

"Isn't that awful?"—Chicago Tribune.

Hard Lines.

He sang beneath her window. The moon was in the sky; She heard his voice, and answered His yearnings with a sigh. She opened soft her lattice, And listen, what was that? She doused him good with water, And yelled like sixty, "Scat!"

—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Secret Revealed.

This is the way the Sweet Things score one another.

"How many seasons has Edith been out? She says only two."

"Nonsense. She's the only girl in our set with her ears pierced and she spells her name with an i instead of with a y—those are both dead giveaways that she's a back number."—N. Y. Times.

Two of a Kind.

"I'm awful glad I've saw you," said the delightful young chambermaid to the great pianist. "I got a brother wats a musician, too."

"Ah!" replied the great man, with polite interest, "I am delight to meet as sistaite of—er—how shall I say?"

"Chimmie Durkin; he's de bass drum in de 'John J. McGettigan N'fe an' Drum Corps'."—Philadelphia Press.

Wasn't That Mean.

"Speech," remarked the female philosopher, "is often quicker than thought."

"Yes," rejoined the masculine animal, "I'm reminded of that fact every time I hear a woman talk."—Chicago Daily News.

More Than Stood for It.

Maud—Do you know, he kissed her in broad daylight, right out in the middle of the street.

Jane—Did she stand for that?

Maud—I should say so. She even got on tiptoes.—Cornell Widow.

As to Archimedes.

"Archimedes," reads the pupil, "leaped from his bath shouting, 'Eureka! Eureka!'"

"One moment, James," says the teacher. "What is the meaning of 'eureka'?"

"Eureka" means 'I have found it.'"

"Very well. What had Archimedes found?"

James hesitates for a moment, then ventures hopefully, "The soap, mum."

—Judge.

Only Natural.

"As I understand you," said the doctor, "his hallucination is that he invested heavily in stocks and lost everything."

"Yes," answered the wife of the patient.

"And, in consequence of the loss of his imaginary fortune, he has suffered greatly in mind?"

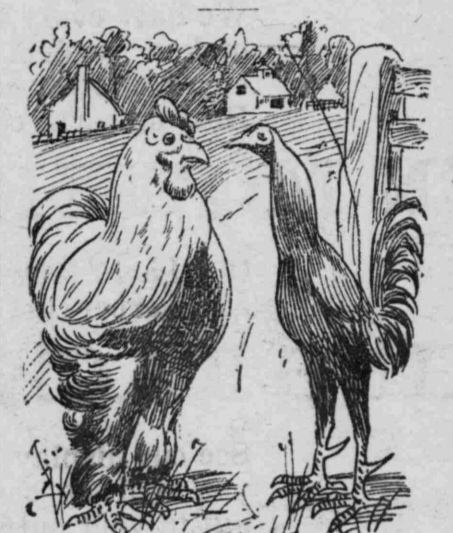

"Yes; that's where he lost the fortune, you know."—Chicago Tribune.

A Fine Blend.

If winter and summer could only be placed In a tumbler and shaken together, This world we inhabit would surely be graced By the most satisfactory weather.

—Washington Star.

THE LIMIT OF LONGEVITY.

The Game—So your grandfather lived to a green old age?

The Brahma—Worse than that. He lived to a boarding house age.—Chicago Daily News.

Lay from Lynn.

There was a poor fellow from Lynn By accident set on a pyre; He let out a shriek, A howl and a squeak, And his language was really a synn.

—N. Y. Herald.

Supplying His Own.

"Policeman Brown is very active in his efforts to catch the boys who play ball on his beat," remarked the captain.

"Yes," replied the citizen, "he has a small boy of his own."

"Ah! and does his own boy play ball?"

"Yes, with the bats and balls his father takes from the others."—Philadelphia Press.

Etymological.

"Well, there's one consolation," observed Mr. Suburbs, philosophically, as he shooed his neighbor's hens over the fence for the some hundredth time. "At last I have discovered why chickens have crops in their anatomy."

"Why?" asked his wife, curiously.

"Why not, with all the seeds they plant in themselves?" queried Mr. Suburbs.—N. Y. Times.

Not a Spender.

Goodman—I think I made an impression on Luschman to-day. I pointed out to him that if he'd only save the money that's usually spent for his drink he'd have several hundred dollars at the end of a year.

Newitt—Wrong track. If you want to see that money saved speak to Luschman's friends. — Philadelphia Press.

The Beneficiaries.

Uncle Nick—I can't say about the funny part at it, but it 'ud be dinged apt to be fatal.—Baltimore American.

ISLAND OF JAN MAYEN.

It Was Discovered by Henry Hudson, But Another Man Gets the Credit For It.

One of the newspapers, speaking recently of the exploratory enterprise on the island of Jan Mayen, north of Iceland, said that the island was named after the man who discovered it. This is a slight inaccuracy which is found in nearly every encyclopedia in existence. The island of Jan Mayen was discovered by Henry Hudson in 1607, four years before it was visited by the Dutchman whose name it bears, says the New York Sun.

The bee in Henry Hudson's bonnet was a consuming passion to find a short passage which might be utilized by the maritime nations of northwest Europe in their trade with the orient. Everybody knows that he was cruelly set adrift to perish in a small boat in Hudson bay after he had found that Hudson strait and the great bay to which it led him were not a part of the northwest passage to China and India which he was seeking.

At an earlier date he had the idea that he might find a short passage to the orient by traveling right across the northern apex of the earth to the eastern countries on the other side of the polar regions. So he skirted the edge of the ice pack all the way between Greenland and Nova Zembla, looking in vain for an opening in the pack.

It was a great geographical work. Hudson proved that there was no royal road across the pole to the orient.

He traced for many hundreds of miles the southern edge of the great frozen sea that covers the northern top of the world. He dissipated forever the erroneous notion, long held by sailors, that sea ice could not form far from land.

He did not get very near the pole; but he discovered the little island of Jan Mayen, with which his name should have been associated. Hudson gave to the island the name of Hudson's Touches; but when Jan Mayen visited the island in his ship Esk he made a great deal more noise over the exploit than Hudson had thought worth while, and attracted so much attention that his name was given to it.

It was another case of Columbus and Amerigo Vespucci. The original discoverer was not honored in the name of the thing discovered. Not only does the island bear the name of the Dutchman, but one of its extinct craters is known as the Esk, from the name of his vessel. Those who read Arctic books, however, know that we have a more satisfactory account of Hudson's discovery of the island than of the subsequent visit of Jan Mayen.

REMEDY FOR HAY-FEVER.

Antitoxin Found in Pollen of Certain Grasses Used with Beneficial Effect.

Sufferers from hay fever will now be rejoicing, no doubt, that their special malady, which has hitherto made them look forward with something like dread to the approach of early summer, is at this moment the subject of extensive experimental research at the hands of Prof. Dunbar, of Hamburg, and that so far as his investigations go, judging from Sir Felix Semon's report in the British Medical Journal, there seems to be a reasonable likelihood that in the near future medical men will be in a position to treat the complaint on a basis of rational pathology and therapeutics, says the Hospital.

Up to the present time the only sure way of obtaining relief from the affection has been to run away from it and to abide the summer in some place where the baleful pollen is not, a course obviously impossible for the many.

Now, however, according to Prof. Dunbar, the toxin has been discovered. He has isolated from the pollen of certain grasses a toxic substance which, when applied in very dilute solution to the eyes or nostrils of individuals who are subject to hay fever, produces within a few minutes the characteristic local symptoms of the complaint.

The toxin solution has no effect upon one who is not a sufferer from hay fever.

By injecting the pollen of various grasses into the circulation of certain animals—rabbits, goats and horses—Prof. Dunbar has succeeded, he believes, in producing an active antitoxin, which, when applied to the eyes and nostrils of hay fever patients in whom the local symptoms have been produced artificially by the previous employment of the toxin, immediately quells the subjective symptoms, and in a few minutes causes the objective signs to subside.

Grasses appear to be the chief offenders in causing the affection, for Prof. Dunbar has failed to discover the toxin in the pollen of roses and many other flowers.

The toxin was obtained in sufficient quantity for experimental purposes by extracting the crushed pollen of maize with saline solutions at the body temperature for about six hours, and by precipitating the toxin from the solution with alcohol. The antitoxin was obtained by injecting the toxin into horses.

His Harvest Moon.

"A young friend of mine," said Senator Joseph W. Bailey, "married not long ago, a woman of 50 years. She was rich and ugly; he was handsome and poor."

The day after their wedding I met the bride and bridegroom on a Pullman train, traveling west. The bridegroom went into the smoking compartment with me, and we lighted up. He smoked gloomily. He was silent a long while.

"Well, Jack," said I, "so this is your honeymoon, eh?"

"He smiled grimly. 'Don't call it my honeymoon,' he said. 'It's the harvest moon with me.'" —N. Y. Tribune.

Didn't Like to Boast.

"How are you getting on with your music, my dear?" inquired a lady of her niece.

"Well, of course," replied the niece, diffidently. "I wouldn't be proper for me to compliment myself, but some of the neighbors have told me they have staid awake at night for hours, listening to my playing."

—Stray Stories.

She Didn't Care.

Maplehill, Ia., Aug. 10th.—"I felt as though I didn't care whether I lived or died, I was so miserable all the time."

In these words does Miss Nellie Barfoot, of this place, describe her condition. Every woman who is, or has been, sick and suffering will understand and appreciate just how Miss Barfoot felt, and there are no doubt many thousands of similar cases.

It is truly an awful thing when a woman gets so low that she can say "I don't care whether I live or die."

But Miss Barfoot tells a different story today, and her words should guide every suffering woman to the path of health and happiness.

"I used Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I am cured. I feel like a new person, and I would say to every woman suffering as I did, give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial, and you will not be disappointed. They are worthy of the highest praise."

Kept a Secret.

Wife—Think I can't keep a secret, do you?

Husband—Yes, I do.

"Well, I've worn an old hat trimmed over for the past two months, and I haven't told a soul yet, so there."—N. Y. Weekly.

Get What You Ask For.

When you see an article well-advertised in the newspapers, you may be sure it's a good article, for advertising only pays if the goods are honest and possess merit. The people who make a specialty of one advertised article, like Cascarets, Candy Cathartics, for example, stake their whole business existence on its doing what they say it will. They must "make good," as the saying is. Readers of this paper are urged to be sure that they get what they ask for, when they ask for an advertised article, for it's the good thing that is imitated and counterfeited. Don't accept substitutes! Insist on getting the genuine!

U. S. SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA Recommends Pe-ru-na For Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

Ex-Senator M. C. Butler.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Catarrh of the Stomach is Generally Called Dyspepsia—Something to Produce Artificial Digestion is Generally Taken.

Hence, Pepsin, Pancreatin and a Host of Other Digestive Remedies Has Been Invented.

These Remedies Do Not Reach the Seat of the Difficulty, Which is Really Catarrh.

EX. U. S. Senator M. C. Butler from South Carolina, was Senator from that state for two terms. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., from Washington, D. C., says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

The only rational way to cure dyspepsia is to remove the catarrh. Peruna cures catarrh. Peruna does not produce artificial digestion. It cures catarrh and leaves the stomach to perform digestion in a natural way. This is vastly better and safer than resorting to artificial methods.

Peruna has cured more cases of dyspepsia than all other remedies combined, simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If catarrh is located in the head, Peruna cures it. If catarrh has fastened itself in the throat or bronchial tubes, Peruna cures it. When catarrh becomes settled in the stomach, Peruna cures it, as well in this location as in any other.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh.
